JEALOUS HUSBAND SHOT WIFE THREE TIMES THEN SUICIDED

GEORGE A. KINNEY COMMITS DOUBLE CRIME AT HIS HOME AT 7 O'CLOCK LAST EVENING—CALLED WIFE TO TOP OF STAIRS, HELD HER AND EMPTIED REVOLVER AT HER, THREE BULLETS ENTERING HER BODY—RELOADED THE WEAPON AND FIRED FATAL SHOT INTO HIS OWN BRAIN.

WOMAN HAS CHANCE TO LIVE, MAN DIED WITHIN HALF HOUR

W. Manger of Wilmington, Who Has Known Mrs. Kinney but Six Weeks, but Who Came Here to Visit, Is Believed by Authorities to Be the Cause of Insane Jealousy Which Caused Kinney to Purchase Gun and Ammunition Late Last Evening—Admits Having Written to Injured Woman and Has Received Letters From Her.

BULLETIN, 3:10 P. M.

Reports from the bedside of Mrs. Kinney at 3 o'clock were to the effect that her condition is very satisfactory; while the attending surgeon and nurses would make no predictions concerning the case, their tone was hopeful.

George A. Kinney shot his wife, Maud Kinney, three times in an attempt to take her life, at their home 417 Highland avenue, at about 7 o'clock last evening and then turned the gun on himself, inflicting a wound which caused his death about 30 minutes after the tragedy.

The shooting is mysterious in many respects, inasmuch as the couple had had no quarrel previously, and Kinney fired the shots into his wife's body without warning, after having called her to an upstairs room.

Called to Her.

Kinney, according to all the obtainable evidence, entered the dining room, which is in the basement, and passed through to the stairway leading to the ground floor, after speaking to his wife, five year old son and W. Manger, a young man who has been visiting there.

Reaching the top of the steps he turned and called to his wife, 'Maud come up here a minute. I want to talk with you.'

Shoots Without Warning.

In compliance with his request, Mrs. Kinney went up stairs, and as she turned into the pantry Kinney, without a word that was audible down stairs, fired three shots rapidly into her body. Immediately afterward he turned the gun to his own head, sending a bullet into the right temple.

Summons Aid.

As soon as he heard the first two shots young Manger rushed out of the house to Mrs. Kinney's sister, Mrs. John Adams, who resides in the other part of the double house occupied by the Kinneys, and after hurriedly telling them of the tragedy that was being enacted next door, he went to the home of Mrs. Kinney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Benson, 421 Madison avenue, where he also delivered the news. From the Benson home he ran up town in search of Mr. Benson, who had gone to his work.

Train Crew Attacked By Gang of Foreigners

One man was injured and several others had narrow escapes when the crew of the westbound I. C. freight No. 91 was attacked by a crowd of 40 Italians, Greeks and men of other nationalities at Grant Friday night, is the story given by the Galena Gazette Saturday. A brakeman was severely injured about the shoulders when struck by a piece of coal hurled by one of the foreigners. A riot call was sent in and several policemen and a deputy sheriff responded and dispersed the crowd.

The trouble started when the train backed into the bunk cars occupied by the men. The car no sooner hit than the men swarmed out like bees. Picking up rocks, clubs and chunks of coal, the fellows started after the train crew. They broke the windows out of the caboose and engine cab and a few of the stones struck sometrable.

Lived Half Hour.

As quickly as possible medical aid and the officers were summoned. Mrs. Kinney, whom it was feared was also mortally wounded, was immediately taken to the Katherine Shaw Bethel hospital, where an examination showed that she had been shot three times, two of the bullets entering the abdomen and the other the neck. Surgeons worked over the woman for several hours, at the end of which time it was announced that she had a chance to live.

Kinney, who had placed the gun against his right temple, fell where he had committed his awful crime, and died within half an hour. He was unconscious when found and did not rally before his end.

Motive a Mystery.

The motive for the crime is a mystery, but it is thought an insane jealousy caused the deed. Kinney, who for some time past has been in the employ of Otto Witzleb as a plumber, quit his position there yesterday morning and announced that he was going to St. Joseph to accept a position in a shoe factory. He exhibited money which he said had been sent to him by the foreman, and told his wife that he expected to leave either last night or this morning for his new position.

As far as can be ascertained, he had not been drinking yesterday, and no evidence has been discovered to indicate that he contemplated his horrifying action. He met his father-in-law, J. W. Benson, at Schweinsberg's saloon, where Mr. Benson is employed, about thirty minutes before the shooting, and talked with the old gentleman for several minutes. He appeared cheerful and normal at that time, and in no way indicated that he contemplated any such deed.

Bought Gun Yesterday.

It has been learned, however, that he purchased the gun with which he took his own and attempted his wife's lives yesterday afternoon at a local hardware store. It was of 38 calibre Harrington & Richardson hammerless.

Jealous of Manger.

Further investigation today would indicate that Kinney was jealous of young Manger, and that possibly his crime was the result of that feeling. The young fellow, who was held by the officers as a witness, came to Dixon Dec. 31, from Wilmington, his home, where, according to his own story, he became acquainted with Mrs. Kinney about five or six weeks ago when she was visiting Mrs. Henry Clark, her aunt.

Says He Wrote to Her.

Under examination this morning Manger admits having written to Mrs. Kinney since that time, and also says she wrote to him. In a search of the house which was made this morning one of Manger's letters to the woman was found, in which he asked: 'How would George like it' if he came here to visit.

Shot Six Times.

A thorough investigation of the premises this morning indicates that Kinney shot the revolver six times, having been forced to discharge the empty shells and reload the weapon before he killed himself.

When he entered the combined kitchen and dining room, after passing the time of day with Manger and his wife, he went up stairs and called to his wife.

Held Her in His Arms.

It is very probable that as she turned into the room at the head of the stairs he threw one arm about his wife and started to shoot. The woman, it is believed, tore loose from him and started to run down stairs, while Kinney continued shooting. The bullets all entered the woman's body from the back, bearing out the surmise. One bullet, which entered upward through her body, passed clear through and was imbedded in the wall of the stairway, while another wild shot passed entirely through the wall of the house.

Fled Down Stairs.

Mrs. Kinney fled down the stairs and Kinney rushed to the top of the stairway and shot the last bullet in the five chamber revolver after her. In went wild, however, and plowed a furrow in the wall, the flattened piece of lead being found in the kitchen this morning.

Sat on Couch.

It is also very probable that after firing the last shot in the revolver after his feeble wife Kinney went to a sofa in the east part of the parlor, broke the gun, thus discharging the empty shells, and placed two more cartridges in it, then placed the gun against his right temple and ended his own life. The bullet passed in an upward direction through his head and was found this morning.

Wife Ran Outdoors.

Mrs. Kinney ran through the kitchen and out doors, probably in an attempt to reach her sister's home, next door, or the residence of her parents nearby. She fell after getting about fifteen feet from the kitchen door.

Can't Find Cartridges.

The officers have been puzzled because of their inability to find any more cartridges. When Kinney purchased the revolver at the Ferguson hardware store at about 6 o'clock last evening, he also purchased a box of 38 calibre loads. Seven of these were shot and one remained in the gun, but a most thorough search by the officials has failed to disclose the whereabouts of the remaining shells.

Manger Examined.

Just what connection Manger may have with the tragedy is unknown, as the officials have been unable to find more than one of the letters he says he wrote to Mrs. Kinney. However, the authorities are of the opinion that his relations with Mrs. Kinney may have been such as to arouse the husband's jealousy, thus causing him to commit the crime. Manger will be questioned closely in an effort to have him admit or deny the suspicions of those who are investigating the case.

Came Down Town Early.

In this morning's investigations it was learned that Kinney had gone home from town between 5 and 6 o'clock, but that he had not stayed for supper, returning to town—probably to buy the revolver. While he was gone Mrs. Kinney and Manger ate supper, the wife setting her husband's supper in the pantry ready to serve to him when he returned. But he did not ask for supper when he came in, going up stairs and calling to his wife instead.

Married in Dixon.

George Kinney and Miss Maud Benson were married in Dixon Jan. 11, 1909, by Rev. Dornblaser, and have one child, Harold. That their married life has not been altogether

WANT D. B. YOUNG FOR SELLING BOOZE

FORMER STERLING MAN, WELL KNOWN IN DIXON, IN TROUBLE IN THE SOUTH.

A recent issue of the Herald of Vicksburg, Miss., contains the following in reference to one of Sterling's former well known and popular residents, who is also well known in Dixon:

'Requisition papers for the return of D. B. Young, former manager of the Hotel Carroll, will be asked for from Gov. Brewer by Judge H. C. Mounser of the circuit court, who was much displeased when informed that the said Mr. Young had left town, presumably for Chicago. Mr. Young, it will be recalled, was indicted with thirty other local dealers, upon the charge of having been engaged in the sale of liquor. He was in the act of boarding the hydro-aeroplane of Tony Janus for an exhibition flight here two weeks ago, when Janus was making the trip down the river, when he was served with the writ from court, the deputy telling him he might not get back, so he thought it better to make service. He did get back, however, and then took the railroad route, either for Chicago or Memphis, and the authorities have been unable to bring the absent one to meet the charges in court since that time.'

WITNESSED CODICIL: IS DISINHERITED

BRYAN FAMILY WANTS INQUIRY

ORVILLE BRYAN TELLS MORRISON NEWSPAPER MEN SO RECENTLY.

Morrison Sentinel: Orville Bryan, of Palmyra, a brother of Leonard Bryan, the late city editor of the Sentinel, accompanied by his cousin, Mr. Wilson of Dixon, visited Morrison Friday of last week and secured the personal effects of his brother. In a conversation with the writer he stated that an erroneous impression prevailed to the effect that the family did not desire an investigation of the cause of his brother's death or a post mortem examination of the remains. Mr. Bryan, who was present at the coroner's inquest upon the body of his brother, says that Coroner Frye told him that he (Frye) could not hold an autopsy because the board of supervisors would not stand for the expense and that he nor any member of his family was consulted about the matter.

Mr. Bryan also said that no member of his family had at any time opposed an investigation of the cause of his brother's death but, on the other hand, were anxious that the death be thoroughly investigated.

It is yet up to the city authorities of Sterling, or the county authorities to make an investigation.

SERVIA TO WITHDRAW FROM WAR

LONDON DIPLOMATIC CIRCLES HEAR IMPORTANT NEWS THIS MORNING.

London, Jan. 8—Special to Telegraph—It was rumored strongly in diplomatic circles here today that the Servian government has determined to withdraw from the Adriatic Sea.

Should such a course be followed it is a decided move for peace, and will probably mean a quick termination of the war.

Two Hundred and Fifty Salesmen Visit Dixon

Early this morning, a special train, consisting of seven vestibuled Pullmans, two diners and an observation car, bearing the placards, 'Rumely Special,' arrived in Dixon, and all day long those cars have stood on the switch track of the Grand Detour Plow Co., while the occupants of the train, 250 strong, have been getting acquainted with the Grand Detour Plow.

The visit of this train and its occupants is a great thing for the Grand Detour Plow Co., and hence for Dixon. Every salesman, branch manager and executive officer of the great Rumely concern is on the train which in addition to Dixon is visiting factories at Stillwater, Minn.; Milwaukee, Wis.; Battle Creek and Lansing, Mich.; and Richmond and LaPorte, Ind. In each of the cities some part of the big line the Rumely people handle, is made.

Gang Plow Made Here

At the Grand Detour Plow Works in this city—the oldest steel plow manufacturing in the United States—is made the new and improved Rumely Engine Gang Plow. This plow, which is the work of the designers of the Grand Detour works, has been tested and it has filled the bill. It is pronounced by those who know, as absolutely the best gang plow that is manufactured. Therefore, it is but natural that President W. B. Brinton, and in fact every man connected with the Grand Detour works and every citizen of Dixon feels a pride in the visit of this special train.

The members of the visiting party who are making this trip to learn every detail of the manufacture of the Rumely products, spent the entire day at the local factory, where special efforts were made to show them the completeness with which all work is done. A display of all the Grand Detour company's products was made, and the Rumely people spent a most enjoyable and profitable day.

Entertained at Elks

This afternoon at 4 o'clock they were taken to the Elks' club where a bountiful banquet will be served this evening, and where they will be entertained with music, games, etc., until 11 o'clock this evening when their spacious special train will leave for Milwaukee.

Social Happenings

Installation, Ladies of G. A. R.
There was a public installation of the Dixon Circle, No. 73, Ladies of the G. A. R. on Monday evening in their hall, and despite the severe storm, the attendance was large and enthusiastic. The society is organization of which the city may be proud, owing to the many acts of charity and kindness accomplished, and the good will among the members.

Emma R. Petre acted as installing officer and in her ever genial manner performed her duties to the admiration of all present.

The most unusual and touching part of the installation performed by Mrs. Petre was that of installing her only daughter, Mae Brookner Cupp, as president. Mrs. Petre was the first president of the charter members of the lodge. Her assistants for the installing exercises were Laura Long and E. Uhl, installing conductors.

The officers presented a pretty sight, being most appropriately gowned in white, and the drill was very well executed. The following officers were installed for the coming year: President—Mae Brookner Cupp; Senior Vice President—Angeline Paige.

Treasurer—Lucy Kirkham; Secretary—Marie B. Hetler; Chaplain—Sadie E. Bowers; Conductor—Mary Schumaker; Assistant Conductor—Elizabeth Melrose.

Guard—Elizabeth Close; Assistant Guard—Mary Beard. A very pretty sandwich basket was presented to Mrs. Petre by the officers.

Mrs. Marie Hetler presented the past president's pin to Mrs. Sadie Bowers.

The installing officers and installing conductors each received a pretty white crocheted bag from the new president, Mrs. Cupp. After the installation delicious refreshments of doughnuts and coffee was served and a pleasant social hour was enjoyed. The outlook is bright for a prosperous year for the Ladies of the G. A. R.

Many at Dance

Nearly 100 couples enjoyed the Red Heads dancing party, given last evening at Rosbrook hall. The feature of the evening was the music by Leaver's orchestra of Beloit, Wis., a harp being used instead of a piano. The music pleased the dancers and many encores testified to the enjoyment those present were having.

A DUTY OF TEACHERS

To look to the care of their pupils' eyes. Many children seem dull, do not like to study, and are called numbskulls.

THEY ARE UNFORTUNATE

In most cases for having some eye defect. Most of them show no sign of eye trouble, and grow to have you done your part? Now is the time to get the eyes of your children for study.

In honor of the occasion Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mumma, the former a son of the venerable couple, entertained at dinner. Those present were Elmer Mumma and wife of St. Charles, C. Pyfer and family and Frank Palmer of Oak Ridge.

John Julien 80 Years Old.

A Minneapolis newspaper contained the following paragraph regarding a party given for our old friend, John Julien, on the 80th anniversary of his birth:

Mrs. Paul J. Petit entertained for her father, J. M. Julien, on his 80th birthday anniversary Saturday at her home, 3438 Pleasant avenue. A German dinner was served at which covers were laid for 22 guests. Progressive euchre was played and the rest of the evening was pleasantly spent in dancing.

Mask Carnival Ball.

The members of St. Agnes Guild are very busy making arrangements for their mask carnival ball, which will be held on the evening of February 3rd, in Rosbrook hall. The ball last year proved such an unqualified success that the patronage this year is sure to be large.

Y. W. F. M. Society.

The Young Women's Foreign Missionary society of the M. E. church held its regular meeting Monday evening at the home of R. C. Caughey. Eighteen members were present and a meeting of exceptional interest was held.

A short program was given, consisting of papers on China, 'Conditions of Effective Prayers,' by Mrs. C. S. Moore; 'The Third Prayer,' by Miss Irma Grose, and 'My Refuge,' by Mrs. Wm. Hintz. The papers were well prepared and greatly enjoyed by the members.

After the meeting adjourned the evening was spent in playing games and a social time, during which refreshments were served.

At Elliott McCleary Home.

A. S. Goodyear and sister, Miss Mary, and Misses Grace and Elizabeth Buckaloo were entertained on Sunday at the Elliott McCleary home in the country.

Dement-Reynolds Nuptials.

This afternoon at 4 o'clock, Miss Lorna Dement and Charles Henry Reynolds of Janesville, Wis., were united in marriage in the presence of the immediate relatives of the contracting parties, Rev. Ralph Crissman, pastor of the Presbyterian church, performing the ceremony at the home of the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Dement, of 393 East Third street.

The wedding was a very simple one and because of this fact, was most effective and impressive.

The bride and groom were unattended. She was appropriately gowned in a traveling costume of blue and carried no flowers.

After the ceremony a wedding collation was served, pink being the color used in the decorations at the dinner, as it has been at many of the entertainments given in honor of the bride. Pink roses used in profusion, with graceful ferns, in the glow of the rose shaded candles making effective and beautiful decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will leave on a wedding tour this evening and will then make their home at Rockford, the groom's headquarters, in his business capacity as sales agent for the Burroughs Adding Machine company. He is a young business man highly esteemed by his employers. His friends in both Janesville, his home town, and Rockford are leaving and those in Dixon will join in the congratulations extended him.

Miss Dement, since her engagement became known, has been the recipient of many pre-nuptial courtesies extended her by many friends. She is a member of the Kendall club, a social and charitable organization of Dixon which has accomplished happy is indicated by letter which Kinney wrote to his wife at various times, and these letters also show that Kinney was out of employment much of the time. However, in all of these he expressed a great love for his wife and his desire to have her with him.

The Inquest.

A coroner's jury, under the guidance of Coroner Geo. Stephan, convened at 1:30 p. m. and inquired as far as possible into the tragedy of last evening which ended in the death of George Kinney and which may result fatally to his wife.

The jury was composed of James N. Sterling, foreman; Geo. M. Clark, Mike Blackburn, Harry Humphrey, N. H. Long and Frank Ortigies. Witnesses, in the order they were called, Dr. E. S. Murphy, the first physician on the scene, Wilford Maugher of Bloomington, Ill., a young man who was visiting at the Kinney home at the time, and who is charged by Sheriff Reid with having been partially responsible for Kinney's act; Ira Compton, who lives near by and who called Dr. Murphy to the place upon being informed of the conditions; Arthur Lievan of St. Dixon, a clerk in Ferguson's hardware store, who sold the 38 calibre revolver that was used in the suicide and attempted murder to George Kinney himself Tuesday evening at 5:45, about 45 minutes before the shooting occurred; Zachariah Adams Jr., brother-in-law of Mrs. Kinney, who first saw her run from the house with clothing ablaze and who extinguished the fire and carried her into his own home next door; Mrs. Zachariah Adams Jr., who told of spending the afternoon previous to the shooting at the Kinney home with Kinney, Mrs. Kinney, Maugher and Walter Parker, and who testified that Kinney had been drinking and acted queerly during the time he was in the house; Sheriff Reid, who went with Officer Winters and young Maugher to the Kinney home after being notified of the trouble, arriving as the ambulance was taking Mrs. Kinney to the hospital and Kinney himself was breathing his last; John Byrne, a fellow workman of Kinney's who told of the dead man's confiding his family troubles to him, and Sergeant of Police Gaffney, who stated that his investigations had led him to believe that the shooting was the result of George Kinney's jealousy for his wife, who he believed was not treating him right.

Dr. Murphy rendered a clear and concise statement of finding the body of Kinney and of attending to Mrs. Kinney's wounds and told Mrs. Kinney's story of the affair, which was, in short, that her husband left home Tuesday evening at supper time and refused to sit down and eat, although supper was ready. He returned in about twenty minutes and asked her to light the lamp and come up stairs with him, that he wished to speak to her. She followed him to the top of the stairs when Kinney reached one hand for a hip pocket and grabbed her with the other. He drew a revolver from his pocket, pressed it against her back and fired. She struggled and fought. He fired again at close range, and then she broke away from him. As she was running down the stairs, he fired three more shots at her, one of the bullets taking effect, making three that entered her body. Her clothing was on fire from the powder burns. Her brother-in-law found her and carried her into his home. Kinney evidently reloaded his gun, went into the bedroom and held the revolver to his temple and pulled the trigger.

much good here. She is a graduate of the Dixon high school and has since then spent much time in the study of music, cultivating the gift of a very sweet and beautiful voice, which has given much pleasure to others, both at the Presbyterian church and socially. Of a naturally charming and attractive personality, she has been a general favorite and Dixon friends are loath to witness her departure, but wish her every happiness in her new life.

Mr. and Mrs. Hawley Wilbur and children and Charles Richard Dement of Waukesha, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Reynolds of Milwaukee, and Mrs. Romanda Reynolds, mother of the groom, of Janesville, Wis., were the out of town relatives present.

Moose Will Meet.

The Moose will hold their regular meeting tonight in their hall.

ger. Two of the wounds in the woman's body showed powder burns, but the third did not. Two of the bullets plowed holes clear through her body, one still remains near the skin at the front of the left side, after penetrating the thickness of her body, passing near the heart. Dr. Murphy said that the woman's condition was rather favorable this afternoon and that he had hopes for her recovery, but that complications might make trouble.

The testimony of all the others went to show that Kinney's action was the result of deep and bitter jealousy for his wife, but no cause for the jealousy was shown. Ira Compton testified that Kinney told him three weeks ago that his wife was not treating him right and that he was going to buy a 38 revolver and kill her 'deader than hell,' and then kill himself. Maugher said that he had noticed no murderous inclination in Kinney's disposition that evening. 'He came in and spoke to them all in a friendly manner, and then asked his wife to come up stairs, as he wanted to speak to her.' After Maugher heard the shooting, he testified, he ran from the house looking for Mrs. Kinney's father. He went down town looking for him, he said.

Several of the witnesses testified that Kinney had been drinking that afternoon, and Maugher said he was drunk when he returned from town and committed the awful deed.

The jury decided that George Kinney came to his death by his own hand while temporarily insane.

RASH ALMOST COVERED FACE

And Arms. Terrible Itching, Blistery Sores on Arms and Limbs. Could not Sleep. Used Cuticura Remedies. Entirely Rid of All Skin Eruptions.

Warrenville, O.—"I have felt the effects of blood poisoning for eighteen years. I was never without some eruptions on my body.

The terrible itching caused me much suffering and discomfort, while the rubbing and scratching made it worse.

"Last spring I had a blistering outbreak of blistery sores on my arms and limbs. My face and arms were almost covered with rash. I could not sleep and lost nineteen pounds in five weeks. My face was terribly red and sore, and felt as if my skin was on fire. At last I tried a sample of Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment and I found them so cool, soothing and healing that I got some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Resolvent. I bathed with hot water and Cuticura Soap, then I applied the Cuticura Ointment every night for two months, and I am entirely cured of all skin eruptions." (Signed) Mrs. Kathryn Kraft, Nov. 28, 1911.

Cuticura Soap is best for skin and hair because of its extreme purity, delicate yet effective medication, and refreshing fragrance. It costs but little more than ordinary soaps, wears to a wafer and gives comfort and satisfaction every moment of its use, for toilet, bath and nursery. Cuticura Soap and Ointment are sold everywhere. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T, Boston."

See Tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY CONVENED TODAY

NINE CANDIDATES ARE IN THE RACE FOR SPEAKER-SHIP.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 8.—Special to Telegraph.—The 58th session of the Illinois General Assembly was convened today with nine candidates in the free-for-all race for the Speakership. All night conferences of the different parties failed to settle on any two or three candidates, and each faction went into the session today with a candidate.

FUNERALS WERE WELL ATTENDED

SAD SERVICES MARK BURIAL OF MRS. HERMAN SCHICK AND MRS. HENRY MILLER.

The funeral of Mrs. Herman Schick which was held at her late residence yesterday afternoon, was very largely attended by friends of the departed woman, and the floral offerings were many and very beautiful. Rev. F. D. Altman conducted the services and burial was at Oakwood cemetery. Those from out of the city who attended the services were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hasseltine, daughter Carrie and son Lester of Chicago and Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hasseltine of Galesburg.

Mrs. Henry Miller.

A very large number of friends attended the last sad rites for Mrs. Henry Miller, which were held at the home of her sister, Mrs. Wm. Moss-holder and at the Prairieville church this morning. The flowers were a tribute to the Palmyra pioneer, and the sermon by Rev. Harms of Sterling was a very beautiful effort. Burial was made at the Prairieville cemetery.

QUININE? NO! PAPE'S BEST FOR BAD COLD

FIRST DOSE OF PAPE'S COLD COMPOUND ENDS GRIPPE MISERY.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound, taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken, will end the Grippe and break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach, limbs or any part of the body.

It promptly relieves the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Take this wonderful Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is nothing else in the world which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after effects as a 25c package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist can supply—accept no substitute—contains no quinine. Belongs in every home. Tastes nice—acts gently.

YOUR HAIR STOPS FALLING, DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS--TRY 25 CENT "DANDERNE"

Save Your Hair! Beautify It! Invigorate Your Scalp! Danderine Grows Hair and We Can Prove It.

Try as you will, after application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or a loose or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use, when you will actually see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine now will immediately double the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine, and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy, and wavy and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove to yourself tonight—now—that your hair it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

EDITORIAL

HOLD THE PHILIPPINES.

Woodrow Wilson would make the Philippine Islands free, according to his latest statement. We had hoped for better sense in the man who is to be president of the United States for the next four years.

The Philippines cost us many good American dollars, and what is of more consequence, many brave American 'Boys in Blue' were sacrificed to get them. Why toss the proceeds of that costly transaction to the winds, or worse, to the wolves, for other powers are hungrily awaiting such action as a signal for their pouncing upon the treasure.

The islands are, to a large extent undeveloped, but rich natural resources are waiting to be made use of. The natives of the islands are uncivilized and in no state to be turned adrift. The government owes it to the natives of the islands and to the citizens of the United States to civilize the islanders and develop the resources of the islands. Such action would be to the mutual benefit of both nations.

England, the greatest civilizer of all nations, has surely been a success along this line and her policy is a good one to pattern after. The man-pagan lands over which her flag now flies are infinitely better since her assumption of control, and England has surely lost nothing by it. Let us allow the Stars and Stripes to continue to wave over the Philippine Islands.

John D. Bridges and wife leave Thursday for El Paso, Ill., to make their future home.

ISADOR EICHLER

OLD DOC TIME

Take all your ills to Doctor Time, and let it go at that; he has the dope that's good and prime for lean ones and for fat. He's cured so many aches and pains; he's heard so many sighs; he's soothed so many weary brains, and wiped so many eyes. A-down the dusty lane of years how many hopes lie low, how many moans, how many tears, how many griefs we know. But old Doc Time just plugs along, prescribing as he goes, and by and by we sing a song, forgetful of our woes; he heals the hurts of other days, he smooths away the cares, he irons out the wrinkled ways—there's virtue in his wares. Oh, Doctor Time, your bitter pills full often make us frown; yet they are good for sundry ills, though big and hard to down; full oft we think your hand is rough, and that your voice is grim; yet well we know it is your stuff that keeps our hearts a-trim. And as the years go drifting down into the past sublime, there's not a friend in all the town like good old Doctor Time.

YOUNG MAN HAD

A NARROW ESCAPE

Will Melshine, a lad about 21 years old, who gave his home as Milwaukee, had a narrow escape from death in the Milwaukee yards at Savanna.

Young Melshine was near the tower as No. 35, Milwaukee passenger from Clinton, was approaching. He had stepped across the track and was standing watching the train go by when the wind blew his overcoat in between the engine and baggage car, catching it on a hook and pulling the young fellow along. He was dragged to a point near the Milwaukee depot when men seeing his perilous position stopped the train and he was released. His clothing was torn to shreds and he received a number of scratches and bruises but otherwise does not appear to be seriously injured.

A BIG SALE OF

SAMPLE SHOES

Henry Lebowich has made a fortunate purchase of 2500 pairs of ladies' and men's sample shoes from the Friedman Shelby Shoe company of St. Louis, manufacturers of the famous Red Goose shoes, and will place them on sale commencing next Saturday. They are mostly Goodyear Welts and hand turns and are worth as high as $6 per pair, and on Saturday they will be placed on sale at less than half price. The sale will continue until the entire sample line is sold. See Mr. Lebowich's ad in this issue.

Earl Buck and father-in-law, Mr. Royer, of Dallas Center, Ia., were visitors in Dixon and Sterling yesterday.

Mrs. John Edous, who had a slight attack of pneumonia, is much improved.

TWO ROCKFORDITES

ATTEMPT SUICIDE

There were two attempts at suicide Monday night. Carrie Gritzman tried to end her life by swallowing a quantity of turpentine. A physician saved her.

Manley St. John, after a quarrel with his young wife, tied a necktie tightly about his neck and then lay down on the floor. Mrs. St. John called the police and the husband was taken to jail.

FRANK TILTON MAKES

A VIGOROUS DENIAL

Frank Tilton of Gap Grove denied the statement that he had been offered a pension and refused it. Mr. Tilton says he is now drawing a pension and wants it distinctly understood that there is no truth in the item going around among the papers to the effect that he had refused the pension.

Dramatic Notes

THE THIRD DEGREE

A prominent attorney said: If the Third Degree, Charles Klein's play, does not compel legislation, with a view to abolishing illegal prosecution of innocent victims by police heads, then we are reverting back to the inquisition period, for a story, touching on so vital a question, be it drama or book, would compel attention and come nearer correcting a vice than all the loud-mouthed reformers in the world.

This in part is Mr. Klein's intention, for when he wrote The Lion and the Mouse, it proved to be so successful, he said, 'So powerful an instrument will the drama come to be in matters of politics and good government that politicians of the future must reckon with it in advancing political movements or combating its effect, as the case may be.'

This remarkable play, on so timely a subject, following so great a number of notorious crimes and political mistakes, will be more than ordinarily interesting to many local playgoers. The date set for its appearance here is Friday, Jan. 10, at the Dixon opera house.

PEOPLE'S COLUMN

A MONUMENTAL HOAX.

The big business asserted to have been done by the Hennepin Canal during the past year does not bear investigation.

The annual report made by the United States engineers shows a tonnage of 932,005 mile tons. These figures look big. Let us investigate what they mean. A mile ton means the carrying of one ton for one mile. The Hennepin Canal therefore carried last year what would be represented by a train load of 1,000 tons carried for 932 miles.

A train of forty cars carrying 25 tons per car represents one thousand tons of freight. The entire year's tonnage of the Hennepin canal would be represented therefore by one train of forty cars on the Illinois Central railroad making one trip only running from Freeport to New Orleans. About $100 per carload would be the cost of that train, or $4,000 for the entire train. The year's earnings of the Hennepin canal at railroad rates would therefore be $4,000 for the entire year.

The United States government is appropriating $100,000 per year for the maintenance of the canal and the salaries of the employees. The earnings of the canal to the public are $4,000 per year. The canal therefore earns less than one-twentieth of the cost of keeping it in operation. The canal cost over eight million dollars to build. It returns not one cent income on the investment.

Its freightage consists mostly of the output of a coal mine which loads coal for a nearby market, and as a means of public transportation of freight it is a burlesque.

Perhaps the saddest feature of the canal at present consists of the number of lock tenders and care-takers who are compelled to pass their lives in solitary disappointment waiting in vain for the longed-for lines of packets and canal boats that have so many times been advertised and announced as being just about ready to overflow the silent channel with enormous traffic. When we consider the many years that these lonely guardians of the bullrushes and tadpole nests of the Hennepin canal have faithfully slumbered away their lives, hoping against hope that some day they would have an opportunity to open a lock to let by a load of freight, we should certainly have pity for their fate, and some resentment against a government that would build a fool ditch like that, and then employ men at good salaries to run it, when there was nothing to run.

OUR HOME HEALTH CLUB.

(By Dr. David H. Reeder.)

Health and Efficiency.

Are you a strong, rugged man, capable of doing a full day's work? And, how about the wife and your sons and daughters? Are they all rugged and robust, able to do their allotted task each day, eat their share of good wholesome food and enjoy their share of good wholesome fun and frolic and happiness? Yes, these are just as necessary, more so, than the work. Without them what's the use of the work, aside from the necessary daily food and sufficient protection from the elements.

If you and your family are of the glum, sour variety and never take the time nor care to have fun and frolic, I would advise you to go to the tropics where all you have to do in order to exist is to pick and eat your daily food.

Without happiness you only exist; you are of but little value to yourself and less to your neighbors. Yes, I mean it, you ugly old grouch, and if you want to prove that you are not past all redemption just try a smile several times daily. Careful, don't break your face; it isn't used to anything but a scowl, and a hearty laugh might crack it. Do something for somebody that don't expect it of you, in some way that you never expect to be rewarded or have them do something for you. What a wonderful sensation comes over one with the consciousness of a good deed that is well done.

A man, a wife, a son or daughter is not capable of doing the best kind of work or of enjoying life as it should be enjoyed unless in good health. It is a fact that blind people are nearly always cheerful and many people who appear to be hopeless invalids are a source of perpetual inspiration to their legions of friends. They are unselfish and radiate happiness, but efficiency from the physical standpoint is impossible.

I know many families who have naturally good constitutions, good blood back of them, plenty of energy and good training, but something is always wrong. The whole family is never well at the same time. Occasionally two or three members are laid up at the same time and their bills for medicines and for the visits of the doctors are enormous. They lose a horse, a cow, a few hogs and lots of chickens every year and can't understand why they have such luck, as they call it. I call it by another name, however. Let me tell you about just one case this time.

I was called to Jenna, in consultation. The eldest daughter had been ill for several months. Did not respond to the usual treatments and the family physician was doing his best. I found her in a big comfortable bed, in a large living room, yes, it was well ventilated and the diet was just what I would have ordered. They had been reading my Home Health Club articles for a long time and the family physician approved of all they were doing for themselves. It took only a few moments to satisfy me his diagnosis was correct and his treatment excellent, but why did she not improve? I must find the cause. The home was a fine big house, all the rooms were big and had plenty of windows, they were open, too, all over the house. I asked to see the cellar. The father and brother of the young woman looked at me with a sickly grin and the father said, 'We have no cellar; you see we are practically on the top of a small mountain and there is only a few feet of soil here, then comes the solid rock.'

'When the house was built they started to dig a cellar and stopped at the rock, so there is nothing but a hole under the house. I insisted upon seeing the hole, however, and found in it about 18 inches of dirty slimy water, covered with green scum. There was a direct drainage from the back door to this cesspool and as the slops were thrown from the kitchen for the chickens, each rain washed the refuse under the house. The young woman's bed was not over six feet above this vile mass of filth.'

Then I examined the well. I was assured they had the finest water in the country. It was clear as crystal and as cold as one could desire. They had blasted through the rock and dug down over 50 feet to a beautiful supply and the walls were lined with cobble stones. The top was well covered with planks and an extra pailful was always always pumped out and thrown away before using. There again I found a source of pollution. The house it was true was on top of a hill, but around the well for several rods the ground was level. For years the extra pailful of water had been thrown in the same place and a little puddle had been formed where the chickens and ducks got their supply of water. A little hard digging soon showed a well defined black streak through the clay just over the rock and the dirty water oozing slowly through to the natural drainage made by the well.

The mother was the only one in the family who had not been sick. Upon inquiry I found that she never drank water. Tea and milk she used freely and the tea was very weak and the water of which it was made was always boiled.

I ordered all the water to be at once removed from under the house and then carbolic acid solution was used freely, several gallons of it. After which the hole was completely filled. The puddle at the well was treated the same way and then a dozen loads of gravel raised the ground around the pump, after which a cement floor was raised around it in all directions for ten feet, with a cement gutter to carry away the waste for a hundred feet to the barn lot. From that point there was a rapid fall and therefore contamination was rendered impossible.

All this was done too late to save the daughter, but since then the father and brother have been well and many of the neighbors have been able to profit much by their sad experience.

In the next article I will tell of conditions as I found them on a farm in the center of the U. S. and later of a village where doctors have grown rich, but had to move away to save their own families.

THAT BAD COLD

THE VAPOR TREATMENT SURELY DOES CLEAN OUT THAT STUFFED UP HEAD.

Don't try to break up a cold with dangerous stomach disturbing drugs. Get directly to the inflamed membrane by breathing HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me). Get a bottle for 50 cents at Rowland Bros. and try this rapid and economical treatment that thousands are using.

In a bowl of boiling water pour a teaspoonful of HYOMEI, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe deep into the lungs the healing vapor that arises.

Breathe this vapor for five or ten minutes until the head feels fine and clear, then go to bed and sleep soundly until morning. No cocaine or opium or harmful drugs in HYOMEI. It is made of Australian Eucalyptus and other antiseptics. It is guaranteed to end catarrh, or money back.

A GOOD LAW

Louisiana has a Pure Shoe law. It was signed by the governor on July 11th last, and is now on the statute books.

The law makes it a crime to manufacture or sell in the state any shoe or boot made partly of substitutes for leather, unless the fact is plainly marked on the sole. The manufacturer's name must also be stamped on the shoe, or boot.

This is a good law and one that ought to apply everywhere. Substitutes for leather are, of course, used for the purpose of cheapening the cost of manufacture, but when the price is not lowered correspondingly, it is fraud. The public is entitled to protection against any scheme to obtain money under false pretenses.

This cannot happen under the Pure Shoe law. The buyer sees at a glance what he pays for.

And this he is entitled to. For while a manufacturer reduces the cost of shoes from 10 to 40 cents a pair by the use of substitutes for leather, he at the same time reduces the value of the shoes to the consumer several times this amount and the consumer gets the worst of the transaction. Often the manufacturer is saving 10 or 15 cents per pair in cost of material cuts the wearing quality half in two.

Guy and Ray Miller are in Amboy today on business.

Emory Tilton of Ashton is here for a few days.

The Ripening of Acquaintance.
They needed to retire but a few steps to be entirely concealed, yet so situated as to command a view across the muddy stream. The sun had not risen above the horizon, but the gray dawn gave misty revelation of the sluggish-flowing river, the brown slope opposite, and the darker shadow of bluffs beyond. The popping of those distant guns had ceased by the time they attained their new position, and they could distinguish the Indians—mere black dots against the brown slope—advancing in a semicircle toward the silent stage. Evidently they were puzzled, fearful of some trickery, for occasionally a gun would crack viciously, the brown smoke plainly visible, the advancing savages halting to observe the effect. Then a bright colored blanket was waved aloft as though in signal, and the entire body, converging toward the deserted coach, leaped forward with a wild yell, which echoed faintly across the water.

The girl hid her face in the sand, with a half-stifled sob, but the Sergeant watched grimly, his eyes barely above the ridge. What would they do when they discovered the dead bodies?—when they realized that others had eluded their vigilance during the night? Would they be able to trace them, or would his ruse succeed? Of course their savage cunning would track them as far as the river—there was no way in which he could have successfully concealed the trail made down the gully, or the marks left on the sandy bank. But would they imagine he had dared to cross the broad stream, burdened with the girl, confronting almost certain death in the quicksand? Would they not believe rather that he had waded along the water's edge headed west, hoping thus to escape to the bluffs, where some hiding-place might be found? Even if they suspected a crossing, would any warriors among them be reckless enough to follow? Would they not be more apt to believe that both fugitives had been sucked down into the treacherous stream? Almost breathless Hamlin watched, these thoughts coursing through his mind, realizing the deadly trap in which they were caught, if the Indians, suspected the truth and essayed the passage. Behind them was sand, ridge after ridge, as far as the eye could discern, and every step they took in flight would leave its plain trail. And now the test was at hand.

He saw them crowd about the coach, leaping and yelling with fury; watched them jerk open the door, and drag forth the two dead bodies, dancing about them, like so many demons, brandishing their guns. A moment they were bunched thus, their wild yelling shrill with triumph; then some among them broke away, bending low as they circled in against the bluff. They knew already that there had been others in the stage, others who had escaped. They were seeking the trail. Suddenly one straightened up, gesticulating, and the others rushed toward him—they had found the "sign!" They were silent now, those main trailers, two of them on hands and knees. Only back where the bodies lay some remained yelling and dancing furiously. Then they also, in response to a shout and the wave of a blanketed arm, scattered, running west toward the gully. There was no hesitancy now; some savage instinct seemed to tell them where the fugitives had gone. They dragged the dead warrior from the ditch, screaming savagely at the discovery. A dozen scrambled for the river bank, others ran for the pony herd, while one or two remained beside the dead warrior. Even at that distance Hamlin could distinguish Roman Nose, and tell what were his orders by every gesture of his arm. The Sergeant grasped the girl's hand, his own eyes barely above the sand ridge, his lips whispering back.

"No, don't move; I'll tell you everything. The stage has been gutted and set on fire. Now they are coming with the ponies. Most of them are directly opposite studying the marks we left on the sand of the bank. Yes, they look across here, but the chief is sure we have gone the other way; he is waving his hand up the river now, and talking. Now he is getting on his horse; there are ten or twelve of them. One fellow is pointing across here, but no one agrees with him.

"Now Roman Nose is giving orders. Hear that yell! They're off now, riding up stream, lashing their ponies into a run. All of them? No; quite a bunch are going back to the coach. I don't believe they are going to hang around here long, though, for they are driving in all their ponies."

"But won't those others come back when they discover we have not gone up the river?"
"I wish I could answer that," he replied earnestly. "But it all depends on what those devils know of the whereabouts of troops. They are Northern Indians, and must have broken through the scouting details sent out from Wallace and Dodge. Some of the boys are bound to be after them, and there is more chance for them to get back safely along the mountains than in the other direction. I don't suppose an Indian in the bunch was ever south of the Arkansas. Wait! Those fellows are going to move now; going for good, too—they are taking the dead Indians with them."

They were little more than black dots at that distance, yet the sun was up by this time and his keen vision could distinguish every movement.

"Creep up here, and you can see also," he said quietly. "They are far enough away now so that it is safe."

There was a moment of breathless quiet, the two fugitives peering cautiously over the sand ridge. To the girl it was a confusion of figures rushing back and forth about the smoking ruins of the stage; occasionally a faint yell echoed across the river, and she could distinguish a savage on his pony gesticulating as he rode back and forth. But the Sergeant comprehended the scene. His eyes met hers and read her bewilderment.

"They are going all right, and in a hurry. It's plain enough they are afraid to stay there any longer. See, they are lashing bodies on to the ponies. Ah, that is what I wanted to be sure about—that fellow is heading west on the trail; now the others are moving."

"Then you are sure Roman Nose will not return? That—that we are safe?"
"Yes; I wouldn't hesitate to go back as soon as the last of them disappear over the ridge," pointing up the river. "They knew they had to go that way; Roman Nose and his hand hoped we'd taken that direction, and hurried on ahead to catch us if he could. They are afraid to stay about here any longer. Look how they are lashing those ponies; there, the last of them are leaving."

They lay there in the sand, already becoming warm under the rays of the sun, trying to assure themselves that all danger of discovery had vanished. There was no movement on the opposite shore; only the blue spiral of smoke curling up against the bluff, marking where the stage had stood. About this, outlined upon the brown grass, appeared darker patches representing dead ponies and the bodies of Moyle and Gonzales, where they had been tumbled, scalped and otherwise mutilated. Down by the river a wounded pony tried to follow the disappearing cavalcade, but fell, giving vent to one scream of agony. Then all was silent, motionless, the last straggler clubbing his horse pitilessly as he vanished over the ridge.

Hamlin sat up, his eyes smiling.
"We are the lucky ones, Miss McDonald," he said, his manner unconsciously more formal now that the danger had passed and a swift realization of who his companion was recurring to his mind. "Something must have frightened them." He shaded his eyes, staring at the bluffs opposite. "But, there is nothing in sight from here. Well, the best thing we can do is to eat breakfast. May I have the haversack, and see what I have stocked with?"

"Certainly not. There is so little I can do, I do not propose yielding any prerogative." And she drew her head through the strap, letting the leather bag fall to the sand. "I am afraid there is no cloth here. Would you dare light a fire?"

"Hardly, even if we had fuel," he answered, watching her with interest. She glanced up into his face, her cheeks reddening.

"Why don't you want me to do this?"
"How do you know I object? Indeed, it is quite pleasant to be waited upon. Only, you see, it is very unusual for an officer's daughter to take such good care of an enlisted man."

"But I am not thinking of that at all. You—this is different."

"For the moment, perhaps," just a slight bitterness in his tone, "and I should enjoy it while I can."

Indignant, yet she stifled the first words that leaped to her lips. His soft hat lay on the sand and the sun revealed his tanned face, bringing out its strength.

"You—shouldn't say that," she faltered. "Surely you do not believe I will ever become ungrateful."

"No; and yet gratitude is not altogether satisfactory." He hesitated. "It is hard to explain just what I mean to you, for you do not realize the life we lead out here—the loneliness of it. Even a man in the ranks may possess the desires of a human being. I—well, I'm hungry for the companionship of a good woman. Don't misunderstand, Miss McDonald. I am not presuming, nor taking advantage of the accident which has placed us in this peculiar position, but I have been a trooper out here now a long while, stationed at little isolated frontier posts, riding the great plains, doing the little routine duties of soldiering. I haven't spoken to a decent woman on terms of social equality for two years; I've looked at a few from a distance and taken orders from them. But they have glanced through me as though I were something inanimate instead of a man. I saved an officer's life once down there," and he pointed into the southeast, "and his wife thanked me as though it were a disagreeable duty. I reckon you don't understand, but I don't like the word gratitude."

"But I do understand," and she stretched out her hand to him across the opened haversack. "I'm not so dull, and it must be awful to feel alone like that. I told you I—I liked you, and—I do. Now remember that, please, and be good. From now on I am not Major McDonald's daughter, not even Miss McDonald—I'm just Molly McDonald."

The gray eyes laughed.

"You are assuming a great risk."

"I don't believe it," her forehead

"I Would Be a Fool to Hope; I Have Been in the Army Too Long."

wrinkling a little, but her eyes bright. "You and I can be friends—can't we?"

"We'll try, out here, at least. Even if the dream doesn't last long, it will be pleasant to remember."

"You do not think it will last, then?"

He shook his head.

"I would be a fool to hope; I have been in the army too long."

They were still for a minute, the girl's fingers toying with the flap of the haversack, her eyes gazing across the river. He thought they were misty.

"I am sorry you are so prejudiced," she said at last slowly, "for I am not like that at all. I am not going to be ashamed of a friend because he—he is in the ranks. I shall be only the more proud. What is your full name?"

He passed his hand over his hair, and laughed.

"They call me 'Brick' Hamlin—a subtle reference to this crown of glory."

"But it isn't red," she insisted swiftly. "Only it shows a little bright with the sun on it, and I am not going to call you that. I don't like nicknames. What did they call you before you went into the army? When—when you did know good women?"

The sergeant bent his head, and then lifted his gray eyes to the girl's face.

"I had almost forgotten," he confessed, "but I'll tell you—David Carter Hamlin; there, you have all of it—my mother called me Dave—could you, once?"

"Could I?" laughing. "Why, of course; now, Dave, we will have breakfast."

"And I am quite ready for it—Molly."

The girl's cheeks reddened, but their eyes met, and both laughed.

Has anybody around here seen anything of the gink who was continually howling for cold weather and snow?

Yes, it'll be safe to deal with him as you feel—the grand jury has adjourned.

Anyone with a sense of imagination can either make things better or worse than they really are. Better notice it?

It has been so long since some folks have done anything really worth while that they have commenced to talk about the things they are going to do.

TAFT TO GUARD WOMEN

President to Protect Suffragists On March 3.

Chief Executive Will Call Out Fort Myer Cavalry Should the Occasion Demand It.

Washington, Jan. 8.—President Taft will turn out the Fifteenth United States cavalry at Fort Myer, if necessary to protect the suffragists, who desire to parade down Pennsylvania avenue March 3, before the throngs drawn here to witness the inaugural procession the following day. This was the information given out at suffragist headquarters here. The women declare the commissioners of the district and Maj. Richard Sylvester, superintendent of police, have withheld permission for the parade because they feared the action of a hostile crowd might overtax the police and that proper protection could not be given the marchers.

Prominent local business men have volunteered their services to the suffragist managers, and it was said they obtained the president's promise to call out the troops to safeguard the marchers from hoodlumism, if the police protection was inadequate. The commissioners will be waited on at once by a committee of the suffragists, who will urge that the necessary permit be given so that the plans for the parade may not be held up by uncertainty.

President Taft is to be invited to review the marching women. They declare their procession will be the most remarkable pageant ever seen in the national capital.

SHIP AND 30 MEN ARE LOST AT SEA

Tank Steamer Rosecrans Hits Rocks Off Oregon Coast and Sinks.

FOUR SAILORS ARE RESCUED

Yacht Huntress Sunk by an Explosion Off Cape Canaveral—Three of Crew Killed—Adriatic Freed and Goes to Sea.

Astoria, Ore., Jan. 8.—Thirty men carried to death beneath the waves and three others clinging for hours to the rigging of the one standing mast, while the huge seas were pounding
the steamer to pieces beneath them, with little hope of help being able to reach them.

That, in short, is the story of the worst marine disaster that has occurred in the vicinity of the mouth of the Columbia river in many years. It is the story of the wreck of the Associated Oil company's tank steamer
Rosecrans, which went to destruction on the north projection of Peacock Spit, not far from McKenzie Head, as the result of the terrific gale.

The Rosecrans, carrying a cargo of 30,000 barrels of crude oil, and with a crew of 34 men on board, sailed from Gaviota, Cal., for the Columbia river on January 3.

Four Men Saved.

The Cape Disappointment life-saving station reported that two of the men clinging to the spar of the wrecked oil steamer Rosecrans had been rescued. The third man was picked up, but when report was sent he was still unconscious and it is feared he will die. Shortly before dark one of the Rosecrans crew was washed ashore at Tiago Wash, in exhausted condition, but apparently uninjured.

The Rosecrans has been an ill-fated vessel. While taking on oil at Gaviota on August 27, 1912, she caught fire and was burned to the water's edge.
On March 12 of the same year she was driven on the rocks at Gaviota and two of her crew were lost.

Built at Glasgow in 1882, the Rosecrans was 335 feet long and registered 2,976 tons gross. She formerly was an army transport.

The vessel was valued with her cargo at about $200,000.

Yacht Blast Kills Three.

Titusville, Fla., Jan. 8.—On the arrival here of Mr. and Mrs. F. W.
Cheesebrough of New York, it became known that their $30,000 yacht, Huntress, was sunk and three of the crew killed by an explosion off Cape Canaverale. The accident occurred while the Huntress was en voyage to Miami from New York. Cook, steward and a seaman were killed. A small power boat was launched and the survivors left the yacht, landing at the Cape.

Adriatic Is Freed.

New York, Jan. 8.—The White Star liner Adriatic, with J. P. Morgan and ex-Senator Nelson W. Aldrich among her 1,600 passengers, which went aground in a thick fog off Red Hook was pulled free and is now out to sea.
The presence of Mr. Morgan aboard the Adriatic, which is his favorite vessel, greatly reassured the ship's passengers. The financier manifested no uneasiness, although, when going aboard the liner at her pier, he questioned the advisability of sailing in such a thick fog.

Asked through a megaphone by a captain of a tug if he wanted to come ashore, Mr. Morgan thundered back a
"no" through a megaphone.

DRUGS GIRL ON TRAIN

Strange Man Accused by Young Woman of Attack.

Says He Bound Her in Berth While Traveling From Chicago to Home of Her Fiance.

Cincinnati, Jan. 8.—Miss Evelyn Stewart, who was found bound and gagged in a berth on a Big Four train from Chicago when it arrived here told the police a story of an attack on the train.

"My home," she said, "is in Jacksonville, Fla. I am engaged to a man in Knoxville, Tenn., and was on my way to that city. In Chicago I stopped at the Hotel La Salle.

"I left Chicago and retired about ten o'clock. Shortly afterward I was awakened by a man sitting on the edge of the berth.

"Haven't you made a mistake?" I asked.

"No, indeed," he replied. Then I remembered nothing until I woke up in the hospital."

Miss Stewart's wrists were bruised and her throat showed signs of finger marks.

Police and railroad officials are uniting in an investigation.

When found, Miss Stewart's arms were twisted under her body and bound with a corset string. An amputee half filled with chloroform was found in the berth.

ARCHBALD DEFENSE RESTS

Taking of Testimony in Impeachment Trial Ends in Senate.

Washington, Jan. 8.—Taking of testimony in the impeachment trial of Judge Robert W. Archbald, ended in the senate after House Manager Sterling had grilled the accused jurist for three hours with the aid of seven senators. The questions asked by the senators concerned chiefly the Katydid culm dump transaction and Judge Archbald's letter to Helm Bruce regarding a case which the latter had before him in the commerce court.
Judge Archbald persistently refused to admit that in writing a letter to a lawyer having a case before him he had done wrong.
